

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A position detecting method includes steps of sensing an image of first and second marks, orthogonal 5 transforming a signal obtained in the sensing step, and calculating each position of the first and second marks based on a phase of a corresponding frequency component obtained in the orthogonal transform step.